Aegis

1965

Dedication of the devoted, Imagination of the creative, Motivation of the inspired, Anticipation of the eager, Determination of the resolved, Realization of the fulfilled . . . the multi-faced moods which are the students, the faculty, and the life of Bainbridge High School. These are the profiles reflected in the '64-'65 Spartan Aegis.

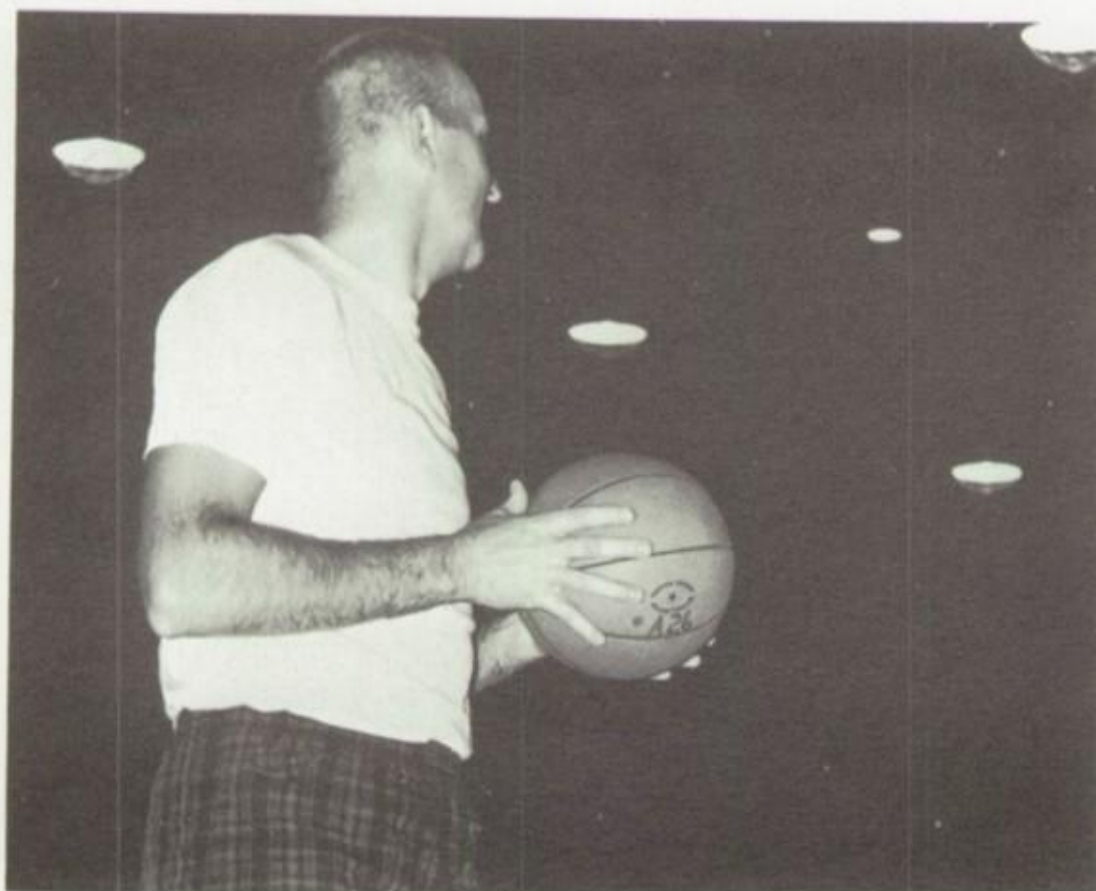

JUNIOR TERM PAPER

DEDICATION - to the entire faculty who represent the six moods of the Spartans. We shall never forget their contribution to our moods - moulding, directing, focusing desirable mature moods.

Flights of fancy transformed into tangible creations . . . lone ideas blending to form a rhapsody of thought . . . whims prompting inspiration . . . daily monotony relieved, enhanced by . . . IMAGINATION.

FEARLESS FACULTY

STUDENT ART WORK

Dreams of the future, education from the past, inspiration of the present . . . pondering of plans and goals come true . . . pensive deliberation supplants wistful memories as another year begins through . . . MOTIVATION.

Individual, unswerving loyalty . . .
 indomitable, steadfast support . . .
 discipline of time and energy guided by an objective, whether in the classroom or playing on the field . . .
 DETERMINATION.

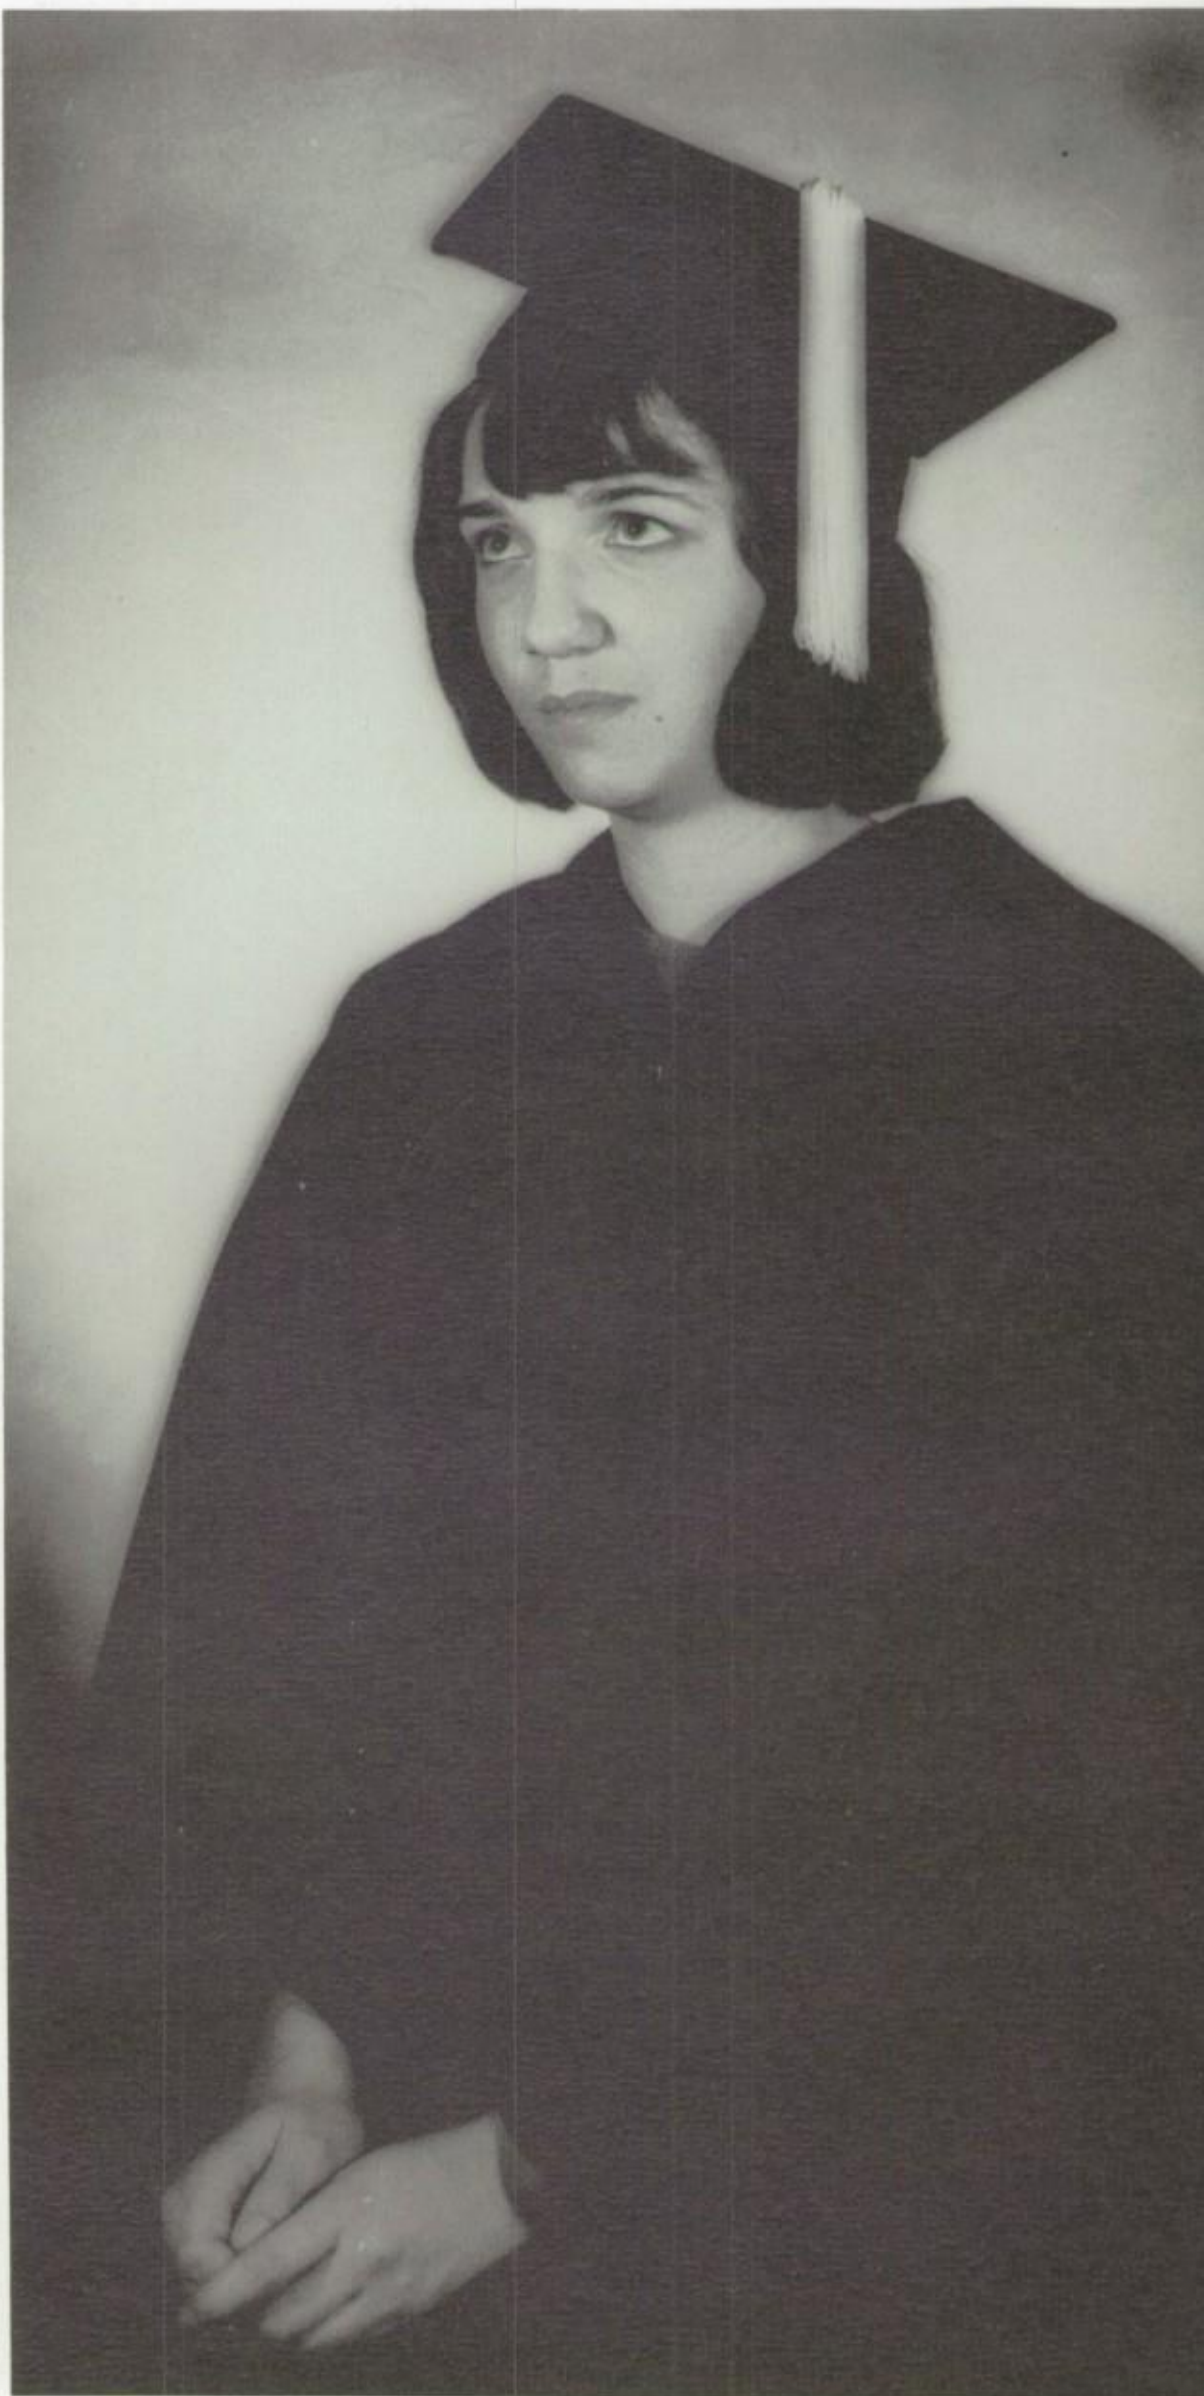

HOMECOMING
 CORSAGES

Tomorrow is today's aspiration; today, yesterday's expectancy . . . contemplation and optimism are inherent in eager and dauntless Spartans.
 Vision of the future, promises of the present, gifts of the past . . . exultation in these bring assurance of tomorrow . . . ANTICIPATION

Conclusion . . . netting of a goal with appreciation of the past . . . accomplishment in scholarship . . .
satisfaction in much endured, surmounted, fulfilled . . . REALIZA-TION.

 Spartan's mood of dedication.*

These men give unselfishly of their time and effort; their only reward is a sense of satisfaction in an important job well done. The School

Superintendent Neal N. Nunamaker and his secretary Norma Thompson

A person whom we see occasionally as he hurriedly enters the school, flashes a warm smile, and usually disappears on another piece of business, is our superintendent, Mr. Nunamaker. A hard-working man, he is respected, admired, and liked by all.

Mrs. Thompson, Secretary for the School District, carries on that multitude of intricate responsibilities which are so essential to the smooth operation of a school system.

B.H.S. Principal Richard E. Chambers and his secretary Eve Vollers

Probably the busiest person at B H S is our principal, Mr. Chambers, who has the responsibility to keep the school running smoothly. Few know of the many decisions he must make each day or of the wide variety of tasks he performs.

"Service with a smile" must undoubtedly be the motto of our secretary, Mrs. Vollers. Her role is a large one, as almost every day she acts as nurse, janitor, mother, banker, and general lifesaver to one of us.

Administration is Dedicated

What do you think of when you hear the word "administration"? Chances are Mr. Nunamaker, the School Board, Mr. Chambers, Mr. Fuhrer, Mrs. Schroeder, and all their assistants come to mind. Perhaps you envision the custodians who mow the lawns on spring days or the bus drivers who greet you every morning five days a week. You may even think of the nurse who issued you that dreaded overweight slip, or the cooks at C.W.B. who satisfied your hunger. But whoever or whatever the administration means to you, we all agree that they are people who are working to help us, the students, get a better education and the best opportunities available. They are people dedicated to their work.

Vice Principal
Mr. Kenneth Fuhrer

Mrs. Jessie M. Schroeder

Mrs. Shirley Johnson

Mrs. Schroeder spent busy days counseling and serving as student adviser. Also, with the help of Mrs. Johnson, her secretary, records were maintained of national test scores and other vital information pertaining to the students of BHS.

Besides teaching two classes, Washington State History and Civics and Contemporary World Problems to seniors, and being Boys' Club adviser, Mr. Fuhrer assumes all the responsibilities of vice-principal. In charge of attendance, he never lets anyone go free after being tardy. He is also in charge of discipline at B. H. S.

"Snookie" Keeps Students Healthy

Several days each fall and spring the school nurse, "Snookie", visits BHS to weigh and measure students. She gives us physical examinations, hearing tests and shots periodically through the years in order to insure our best health.

Long after the last student has left and the office door has closed, our two faithful custodians are still at work.

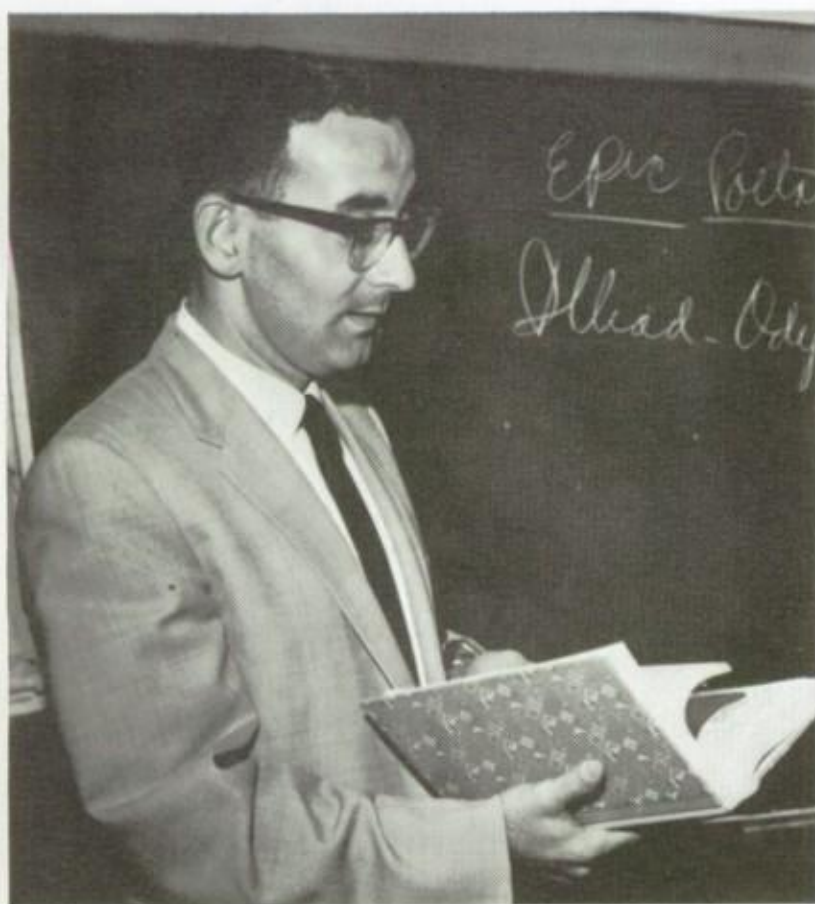

In addition to the two custodians Mr. Don Dyste is in charge of bus operation and maintenance for the school district. Mr. Chuck Burrows and Mr. Hayden Callahan are in charge of district building repairs and maintenance.

English Dep't Rates High

Mrs. Nancy Fuhrer

The English language is the bond of our country. With it we can express every form and depth of any subject available to the questing mind. We pride ourselves on the fine English department at Bainbridge High School. Be it literature, grammar, or dramatics, it has all been worth our while. No one subject contributes so much to the success of each student in his chosen field. While walking the halls of the third floor, one might hear a girl attempting the masculine role of Antony's funeral oration, a heated discussion on the implications of deep, latent meanings in poetry, the completion of a spelling bee, or the recitation of an original creation of student writing. All this is part of developing oneself for meeting the outside world and understanding our fellow humans.

Effective Speech Taught

Speech is the means of communication of people throughout the world today. Through speech the problems of the world can be solved peacefully. Students at B.H.S. gain insight into the affairs and customs of other lands by studying their languages. Spanish, French, and German are offered and are taught by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Stewart respectively. By actively participating in debate students learn practical application of effective communication.

Balancing equations, breaking test tubes, marveling over dancing blue beads, and toiling over notebooks and lab reports are familiar events in the lives of all science students at B H S. A full program in science is offered by Mr. Gurley, who teaches the basic physical science class, Mr. Bonamy and Mrs. Russell, who teach practical biology, and Mr. Eide, who teaches thought-provoking chemistry and physics classes.

The four year social studies program includes Washington State History taught by Mr. Beach and Mr. Fuhrer; World History for sophomores, taught by Mr. Winsor and Mr. Brown; U. S. History for juniors taught by Mr. Clough and Mr. Brown; climaxed by thought provoking 12th grade Civics and Contemporary World Problems classes, which serve as a transition from high school to adult life, taught by Mr. Clough, Mr. Fuhrer, and Mr. Winsor.

Boys in Mr. Rosi's industrial arts classes meet the vocational challenge of the outside world by preparing themselves for future work.

Hail to the hardworking girls of the commercial courses who, under Mrs. Joslin's guidance, do all of the backbreaking paper work that keeps the school going. Of course, the girls are also obtaining a thorough working knowledge for their careers in the business world.

Mr. Allen Beach

The annual staff members would like to dedicate the 1965 Spartan Aegis to Mr. Allen Beach. As a journalism adviser, economics, sociology, and Washington State History teacher, Mr. Beach is liked and respected by many--despite his never-ending supply of corny jokes. Many people do not realize the extent of Mr. Beach's accomplishments. As an alumnus of Washington State University, he has carried his childhood interest in the Island to a book, Bainbridge Landings. More recently, in collaboration with Mr. W. Thompson, Steamers to Tacoma was published. For this, Mr. Beach received the 1963 Maritime Editorial Award for the most outstanding book on Northwest maritime history. Mr. Beach has been teaching for 35 years, the past eight of which have been spent on the Island. Before coming to the Island, he was a school superintendent in San Diego County, California. In addition to his out-of-school activities, Mr. Beach spends countless hours after school toiling, often alone, for the benefit of both journalism staffs and the whole school. We, therefore, feel it fitting and appropriate to dedicate this book to you, Mr. Beach.

Muscles Built in P.E. Classes

How is a Play Produced ?

That's easy, you say. Some people get together and practice acting different parts until they do it well enough to show the rest of the school. Essentially, that is correct. However, to those who are in it, putting on a play involves much more--memorizing parts, practicing every night, dress rehearsals until 11:00 p.m., making costumes, learning cues, last-minute nervousness, and homework half-done by dim light. In this section we are trying to portray the behind the scene action by pictures and captions so that you can get an insight into the production of a play at B.H.S.

Students Hear Marine Band

No one can doubt the dedication of the band, directed by Mr. Melvin Samek. Through rain, sleet, and freezing temperatures, the band with numb fingers continues to entertain us at our football games. During basketball season they helped us cheer our team to victory by providing accompaniment to our songs and chants. Meanwhile during their first period practice sessions each day they worked hard to prepare pieces for the Christmas and spring concerts.

The band spent many hours on Saturdays attending contests and parades. Several members also presented solos and ensembles at recitals. Early in the fall the band took a field trip to Seattle to hear the Marine Band perform. The fine music offered by this band was an enjoyment and inspiration to those who attended.

Christmas concert

Towards Christmas time, the senior girls organized a self-directed glee club of thirty girls. Their purpose was to provide songs of varying type for the enjoyment of all. They worked on folk songs, modern popular pieces, and some religious arrangements.

Christmas Program Presented

This year Mr. Burlingame separated his singers into choir and chorus. The choir consisted of previous chorus members and many upperclassmen as well. They performed the more difficult pieces and did so more often than the chorus. The chorus was more or less still learning the basic control and production. Most of them will be in choir as they improve. We are all very proud of the work they are doing this year, and hope that next year there will be recruits. Soon BHS will have a music department as full as the required subjects. All we need is a little enthusiasm and some hard work. See you all next September in the annex!

Frosh Are Honored Guests Of Seniors

Led by Mike Beemer, the freshmen class made its presence known early in the school year by coming up in the number one spot in the magazine drive. According to tradition, the challenging seniors relinquished the Senior Lounge to the freshmen for one week.

Showing their athletic strength, the freshmen had a good turnout of boys for football. According to their coach, Ron Thompson, these boys have a great deal of stamina. Although they didn't get to play a single game, they showed their dedication by turning out every night—rain or shine. At the time this section of the book was being edited the freshmen had a good start in basketball also, tying with West Bremerton for first place in the jamboree.

Freshman cheerleader tryouts, November 13, proved that the girls in the class are also coordinated. The final selection made Jane Majors and Lorraine Corpuz princesses. Connie Bellinger was honored as queen, and Jane Mitchell was alternate.

Besides Mike Beemer, other class officer are: Jane Mitchell, secretary; Chris Taylor, treasurer; and Connie Bellinger, representative to student council.

Naomi Barnes, secretary for '64-'65, was also kept busy typing minutes and agendas for council meetings and for writing important business letters.

Student Body has Democratic Form of Government

The Associated Student Body of Bainbridge High School is the nucleus of the school. Composed of a large majority of all of the students, it has a democratic form of government. Its "states" are roll rooms and its "union" are worthwhile clubs. Each of these sends a representative to "congress", or student council, as it is more commonly called. Student council meets for one hour every other week.

The president, Bruce Mitchell, elected from the entire body, presides over the meetings. He is also in charge of keeping all student body activities in smooth running order.

The vice-president, Jim Knudsen, occasionally assumes these tasks if the president is absent. Other duties of the vice-president include being chairman of the revenue project, the magazine drive. This involves much work as each day subscriptions and money must be tallied. To help him with this load of book work are A.S.B. officers, secretary, and treasurer.

Treasurer Judy Harris had her hands full in early fall by handling the A.S.B. card sale. These cards, which entitle a student to become an A.S.B. member, are purchased for five dollars. Other advantages include free admission to home games and reduced rates for school publications.

Another small source of income for the student body is the apple machine. For one dime a large cold, crisp, delicious apple may be bought from October until April. Students at B.H.S. seem healthier since the acquisition of this mechanical "apple tree."

Girls' Club Enjoys a Prosperous Year

"It's so different!" said a few girls as the first meeting of Girls' Club adjourned. And right they were. Girls of the Month were voted for according to individual phrases of the creed card. The Service Girls, who had to show outstanding service to the school, were chosen every two months by the cabinet.

Girls' Club was in charge of making Homecoming Corsages which sold for $.75. These, as usual, were a huge success.

The Tolo was the next big event on the calendar. The committee finally decided on "Through a Looking Glass" as a theme. Alice in Wonderland, the Chesshire Cat, Mad Hatter, and the Queen of Hearts were there in costume. It was a delightful evening (except that the wrong band came and the photographer forgot his film)!

A tremendous nut sale was the major money making project. Over $500 was netted. The inspiration for the girls was prizes of radios, hair dryers, camel's hair coats, and ski equipment. The money made went into the annual club scholarship.

The regular meetings were heightened by excellent entertainment such as skits, singing, etc. The cabinet members could always be recognized by their white sailor blouses and navy blue skirts.

Sign Broadcasts Activities to Passers-by Paul Ganalon, '64-65 president of Boys' Club, kept a boys' club tradition of one year by bringing the Harlem Clowns to Bainbridge once more. On the night of November 24, the public was invited to watch this team play the Fearless Faculty for the admission price of one dollar. Under Paul's guidance, the cabinet decided to spend their hard earned money on something to benefit the whole school, a reader board. This board, which was set up in December, announces the coming events at the school to all those who pass by.

Another successful project of this year's Boys' Club was sponsoring the annual Grub Dance. As usual, all the decorations were generally "grubby" and everyone had a great time. Watch for pictures and more details of this dance in the fall supplement.

Language Council

Language Council's main project was a foreign potluck sale in the cafeteria. Everything from hot Spanish rice to delicate French pastery was available. Honor Society

Torch Strives for More Honorable Goals

Service, Citizenship, Scholarship, and Leadership are the characteristics that this year's National Honor Society members were trying to achieve.

Under the guidance of their advisor, Mr. Winsor, students of this organization served at the football banquet, sold refreshments at football games, and placed scholastic posters in the halls.

A highlight of the year was the annual banquet given for the junior and senior members at the Martinique. Guest speaker was Dr. Giovanni Costigan from the University of Washington, who gave a very interesting speech on world affairs. Another event that members participated in was the Torch Club picnic given every year at Fay Bainbridge State Park. Dismissed from almost an entire day of school, students enjoyed hot dogs, salad, casseroles, and other delicious dishes; and many walked and waded in the cold sound.

Better Homemakers of Tomorrow

Under the direction of Mrs. Lois Paski, Home Ec. Club has fulfilled its goal of better homemakers for tomorrow. The girls who are members provide hot dogs for concessions at football games. Often times, they prepare sandwiches for the players. The annual tea and fashion show, sponsored in honor of senior girls, is well received by both mothers and all girls whether in the club or not. What ever their job, you can be sure it is well done. Officers are Dawn Hewsen, treasurer; Kathy Stone, secretary; Imelda Conrad, vice-president; and Barbara Knapp, president.

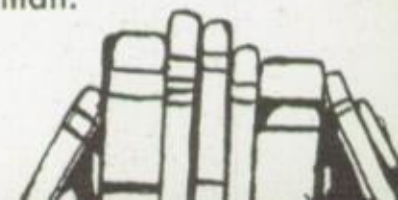

Library Club began the school year with the annual paper-back book sale. These were available throughout the school year and were publicized at various intervals.

Librarians from BHS went on a field trip this year to Seattle Public Library November 10. They toured the bindary, main office, book deposit room, and finally the main book department.

A Christmas cookie sale was a successful project, followed by a Christmas party. They also sponsored a mixer February 5.

Sophomore Class Officers: Chris Combs; vice-president; Leslie Hyland; treasurer; Jim Lund, representative, Mary K Anderson, president

Led by president Mary K. Anderson, the sophomore class proved to be extremely spirited, winning the spirit jug twice by December. They held second place in the magazine drive. December 11 their mixer brought in a tidy sum. A sale was held for their major project.

According to tradition, sophomores decorated the gym for Baccalaureate. They also "contributed" several athletes to basketball and football "A" squads.

Hearty wishes are extended to them as next year's juniors.

Anticipation

The suspense of awaiting announcement of homecoming royalty . . . the applause and tears . . . a Spartan on a charger . . . clashing clothes and "lick Angeles" posters . . . blue and gold in multiple harmony . . . "Evening in Athens" excitement of intermission and royalty . . . "Booster buttons, only 25 cents" . . . cheering in mud, rain and frosty air . . . excited cheers of victory and loyal cheers through defeat . . . all these evolve into the Spartans' mood of ANTICIPATION.

KING BARRY, QUEEN JEAN REIGN

Queen Jean Opheim and King Barry Staymates reigned over the high school fete of 1964 Homecoming. The announcement of king and queen was not made until that evening, a new practice established by the 1964 committee. Cheerleaders and pep club officers crowned the royalty and honored them with flowers. Queen Jean and King Barry, Princess Carole Heald and Escort Paul Ganalon, and Princess Ann Pomeroy and Escort Bruce Mitchell rode in convertibles around the football field. A Spartan rode a magnificent charger which pranced in front of the stands. To enhance the excitement of Homecoming, the spirit was carried throughout the preceeding week. This included a "Lick Angeles" Day when suckers sold for 2/5¢, a Clash Day when the clashiest clothes won recognition, and a Blue and Gold Day when prizes were awarded for the most original outfits. Homecoming '64 is certainly a night well worth remembering.

Pep Club 64-65

Pep Club had several money making projects this year, including a mixer January 29, two "lick opponent days", and successful pep assemblies with skits, songs, and yells. The year was highlighted by the Olympic League Cheerleading Conference held at BHS. Several committees were established to discuss various problems, plans, and ideas concerning pep, squads, and successful assemblies and games. At the end of the day, each school performed a song and yell for the entire BHS student body. The color and excitement was a thrilling experience for all.

All the pep club officers were decked in uniform this year with hopes of promoting greater spirit. The pep section was roped off during basketball season with pep members wearing white shirts and blouses. "Pep pills" were passed out to these spirited students. It was the job of Pep Club to make sure that signs, tags, and yell books were distributed to the students. The ultimate goal existing was to have the entire student body overflow the pep section and show the other schools just how much we really were supporting our team throughout football and basketball, and through out the whole year in all sports.

Pep Squad 64-65

The Pep Squad, under the helpful direction of Mrs. Jessie Schroeder, proved to be one of the best in the league this year. Not only were their routines original, their pep overwhelming, but their spirit was an inspiration to all who attended football and basketball games.

Last fall, Bainbridge hosted the annual Olympic League Cheerleading Conference in which the Pep Squad played an important part. They led group discussions and participated in a mass-assembly before the student body. They also worked together with Lettermen's Club and the Spring Sports Committee on a successful North Kitsap Bainbridge Spring Sports Benefit Game. The cheerleaders were victorious in basketball and a tug of war. Another accomplishment was the appropriation of $10 towards uniforms from general control. Bainbridge High School is very proud of their '64-65' Pep Squad.

Button Sale Inspires Pep

Peppy Anna Rinonos was in charge of the junior class this year. The major project consisted of a Spartan button sale. A large profit was secured by selling the pins for 25¢ each. In November, a very well received mixer was held after a victory over North Mason, 58-34.

The junior prom in March was themed "Evening in Athens". Decor was applicable of the ancient Greek environment. The Senior Banquet was organized and presented by the junior class after Baccalaureate.

We, the Seniors, wish them a successful and memorable year as the seniors of '66.

The Bainbridge Spartans again rounded out the football season with a 5 win 3 loss record. The first game with the Central Kitsap Cougars proved to be one of the most exciting as BHS came from behind in the fourth quarter to win 19-13. Our second league game against the Wolves from Sequim was our first League setback as they took advantage of our mistakes and won a squeaker 13-12. Then came the Spartans "big win." The whole team played together 100% to beat the Port Townsend Redskins 12-0 for the first time in six years. The game that could have meant a tie for the championship was against the Vashon Pirates. It was a foggy, cold night, and the Pirates jumped off to a 14-0 lead before the Spartans could get rolling. But we didn't give up and went into the locker room at halftime leading 20-14. But the Pirates got rolling again and didn't stop again as they rolled up a fine 28-20 upset over us. Bainbridge wound up the season with two victories over the North Kitsap Vikings and the Bulldogs of North Mason.

Parking Squad Serves School

The Paddle Squad, advised by Mr. Okada, was in charge of directing the mobile traffic at football and basketball games. It was also required to maintain order in the bleachers. During the beginning of the year, when Mr. Fuhrer's new parking plan was introduced, it routinely checked the parking lots to make sure that students parked in the correct places.

Lettermen's Club Makes It !

Under the direction of Mr. Rosi, the Lettermen's Club sponsored a "Santa rental" to clubs, parties, etc. Members secured a beneficial profit for their club. Soon after, the club became a voting member of student council. It's job was to keep the bleachers in order and to sweep the floor at basketball games.

Playdays Highlight Year

GAA was an active organization advised by Mrs. Russell. Bowling was the highlight until the gym was free, then basketball season became the main activity. When the weather improved, volleyball, softball, and other outdoor sports were popular. The playday is an annual activity for GAA. This involves traveling and participation in mixed competition for the girls. The Daddy Dinner was the 'grande finale' to the year. The members invited their fathers and the awards for various achievements were given. The most important of these is the inspirational award given to a worthy senior girl. GAA also sponsored a successful mixer.

Photoessay is New Experiment

Vickie Bucsit, Joan Olson, Betty Crumpton

Pat Lamping Chris Burkheimier

Back in first year journalism, we dreamed of the day when we would work on the annual staff. Then came a workshop. We walked in knowing nothing about annuals, and walked out laden with ideas, initiative, and a package of bewilderment tied to our backs. We worked hard all that summer and set right to work the very first day of school. Multiples, ladders, glue, layout, copy, snaps, lose and find, and a little booklet of annual production were our bread and water. There was so much to do and it all had to be done before spring sports even began. There were problems in everything, but we made it through, and now we present it to you. We have used 'photo-essay', a magazine layout that follows the way the eyes follow a page. We have tried to provide more accurate and complete copy, include a wider variety of action shots instead of the posed, and have attempted to show the individual in true life... in the SPARTAN AEGIS, 1965.

Photography

Mr. Bonamy's sixth period, all-male photography class was indispensable to the journalism staffs this year. They prepared innumerable snapshots for them. Deep thanks are extended from the Spartan Aegis and Life.

Several special projects were completed in photography. A panorama shot was one of the most difficult projects. This consisted of a ten mile view with several photos that had to be evenly matched to give one panorama. The class worked on moonlight, snow, and cloud scenery shots. They learned to super-impose, which is putting two negatives together to form a double exposure.

The photography class made their own portraits from studio shots and sold cap and gown pictures for 1/15 the usual cost. They also experienced gold and blue toning of studio-type photos.

"Life" Features Editorials

The Spartan Life (recently changed from Spartan Aegis) put out eleven issues this year - two of which the junior class edited. Co-editor Nancy Downs stated that their staff is dedicated, compatable, and proficient in putting out fine papers, issue after issue. Many evenings toward the day of issuing are spent in the publications room typing, opaquing, and printing.

This year the "Life" staff took a field trip to the BREMERTON SUN. Here they watched the actual production of a daily paper, finding it to be far more difficult than had been anticipated. A great deal was learned from this trip. The two editors, Nancy Downs and Reesa Huff, and the assistant editor, Signe Olausen, began a featured column this year, the editorials. All in all, the student body has responded well to this year's "Spartan Life."

Students Express Creativity

Poems submitted by students voluntarily or through the English classes were used this year in the single edition of the ROCK, Bainbridge High School's literary magazine. The only edition was published in spring. The staff had been working on it throughout the entire year, collecting poems, arranging them, and selecting the proper art work. Mr. Elfendahl advised a high school art class that submitted art work.

It is hoped that the ROCK's purpose is recognized: to stimulate students to write, to give everyone a chance to express himself, and to allow the student body and people who read the ROCK to find some enjoyment in creative writing.

In an effort to capture life at BHS in a more realistic and meaningful way, we have focused upon the myriad of moods which are born and are present on our campus. We have chosen the Aegis, the traditional tri-plated shield of the Spartans, to reflect these moods: dedication, imagination, motivation, anticipation, determination, and realization.

The layout is probably as completely new to you as it is to the staff. We have attempted to modernize the yearbook by bringing more action and life into our photographs and write-ups. In doing this, as in trying anything for the first time, many mistakes have been made. We hope that you will bear with us, especially if any of these affect you personally.

As you thumb through the pages of this record, we hope that it will evoke our memories of the past months. Throughout the publication year we have tried to preserve moments in the classroom, on the football field, on the stage or the dance floor, at the state tourney. In doing this we have tried to provide you with a book that would serve not only as a directory of "magshots" but as a pictorial chronology of the '64-'65 year at BHS.

Staff members studying this book will be reminded of rubber cement, torn photos, mist pages, spotted headlines, Bartlett's Familiar Quotations, class ballots, parties during deadlines, India ink, darning sheets, and hours of thankless toil after the last bell has rung. Now that it is over I hope that pride will accompany these memories.

This yearbook most certainly would not have been possible without the labor of many hands and the co-operation of many individuals. I would like to extend sincere thanks to: American Yearbook for publishing the book...Mr. Palm for advice...Hudson Studio for taking the excellent class portraits and activity pictures...Mr. Bonamy and the photography class for their patience with all our requests...Arney Rodal for his time and effort spent at taking, developing, and enlarging a torrent of pictures...Mr. Doremus for printing lists of names...American Litho for their speed and efficiency in printing most of the copy...Mr. Chambers for sparing time for scheduling pictures...Mrs. Vollers whose smile gave us courage to keep going...the rest of the faculty for giving up class time for pictures and other interruptions...my close friends and family without whom deadlines would never have been met...the staff for a job well done...and Mr. Beach for his continual assistance and encouragement. You were all indispensable.
